

Intercompany Financial Management: Go Beyond Zero

Thursday, June 9, 2022 | 11:00 AM Pacific Standard Time

Program Description

The sum of intercompany activity should be zero. It rarely, if ever, is. But the problem is much larger than reconciling differences to zero.

Intercompany Financial Management is an entirely new approach that enables your organization not just to reconcile differences to zero—but go beyond by unlocking growth capacity with more tax-efficient processes and optimized business operations.

Join this session where we explore intercompany as a business driver in your organization. You'll learn:

- Why intercompany is not just a consolidation issue but opens up new avenues for growth when optimized across the business.
- What Intercompany Financial Management entails and how it transforms day-to-day intercompany operations across global operations, accounting, finance, tax, and more.
- How BlackLine Intercompany manages the structuring and handling of intercompany transactions providing a cornerstone for financial transformation.
